

About Our Presenters . . .

Harry R. Pringle has been representing school districts in all aspects of school law for over 35 years at Drummond Woodsum. A former director of the National School Boards Association and a current member of the Maine Council of School Board Attorneys, Harry is listed in Best Lawyers in America under the category, "Labor and Employment Law," and has been elected a fellow in the national College of Labor and Employment Lawyers. In addition to teaching courses on Maine school law for the University of New England and USM, he has lectured nationally on school law and employment law and is an editor and co-author of Maine School Law, 3rd. Edition, and an author of Significant Cases in Maine School Law, 2nd. Edition.

Peter C. Felmly is a member of Drummond Woodsum's Public Sector and Trial Services Groups, practicing primarily in the areas of school law, employment law, civil litigation, and appellate practice. Since joining the firm in 2003, he has advised school districts and other public entities on a full range of legal matters, including those relating to the employment of teachers and school administrators, teachers' and students' rights under the First Amendment, student discipline, compliance with state and federal discrimination laws, and public entities' obligations under Maine's Freedom of Access Act. He has also conducted a number of personnel investigations involving public employees and allegations of misconduct, including sexual misconduct.

About the Workshop . . .

The Advanced Staff Evaluation Workshop is a unique opportunity created in response to administrators' requests for more in-depth training in the staff evaluation process. Participants should have had some experience with evaluations in the school setting.

We encourage teams of administrators to attend and work together during this practical workshop, which will feature a learn-by-doing format. Guided by experienced school lawyers Harry Pringle and Peter Felmly, participants will write actual observations, evaluations, and reprimands based on real-life scenarios.

Participants in the last workshop said: "The presenters combined humor and knowledge to make this workshop both meaningful and motivating." "The design and leadership of the workshop were brilliant; quick and insightful overview of the legal system and regs; breaking down the 'action' work for small groups; and ALLOWING the groups to struggle, learn, and produce a product!" "Good combination of laws, suggestions, and solutions for ways to deal with real situations. As a new administrator, this was very helpful." "Great balance of large group presentation, small group problem-solving, and large group sharing and discussion."

Because registration is limited to 60 people in order to ensure a quality learning experience for all, be sure to register early. For more information, contact the MPA at 622-0217.
